VIRTUAL CONFERENCE 2017

October 17-19

IMAGINE A WORLD

Powered by eeWEBINARS

BIENVENIDOS WELCOME

naaee.org/conference/virtual

Join us as we bring together highlights of this year's conference!

Tuesday, October 17-Thursday, October 19

We hope you can join us for virtual conference week at NAAEE. We'll share a few highlights of what was planned for Puerto Rico through a series of webinars featuring some of the plenary presentations, workshops, and symposia. Please check out the schedule below, and refer to the last page for directions on how to join the webinars.

In addition to the events taking place via webinar during virtual conference week, we're creating a special virtual conference webpage on eePRO. All accepted presenters will have the opportunity to post the inspiring, important work you're doing and connect with others who share your interests. We're still working out the details, which will be announced soon, but presenters for all accepted sessions for the Conference and Research Symposium will have the opportunity to contribute:

- Papers
- Short video summations
- Presentations (such as PowerPoints)
- Posters

The session posts will go beyond the normal proceedings—we will tag each post to the virtual conference page and to eePRO Groups, where we encourage comments and further discussion about session content. And with eePRO, you can easily contact any presenter for more information.

To summarize, there are two ways to participate in virtual conference week: 1) Join us for the webinars Tuesday through Thursday; and 2) Share your session materials on the virtual conference page and contribute to our efforts to create an exciting virtual record of what would have taken place at the conference.

Please note that presenters must have legal permission to upload any copyrighted material, including photos, cartoons, and content on our website.

When Hurricane Maria slammed into Puerto Rico, life changed for every living thing on the island. Today, communities throughout the island are facing the biggest humanitarian crisis in modern history, with very limited access to clean water, food, health care, and other basic services. At the same time that the hurricane has turned people's lives upside down, the island's rich biodiversity—from the coastal habitats to the central mountains—has also been hit hard.

For more than a year, NAAEE has worked hand-in-hand to plan the conference with our nonprofit partner and conference co-chair, Para La Naturaleza (PLN). They have been a tireless force for education and nature, with a mission to preserve the island's beauty and educate about the importance of conservation and stewardship. By maintaining more than 50 natural areas, conducting environmental education programs, and serving as conservation champions, PLN is protecting the island's unique natural resources and ensuring that all residents and visitors have access to the amazing wild places that make Puerto Rico one of the Caribbean's most beautiful islands.

Join us as we come Together for Puerto Rico to support not only the staff and families of Para La Naturaleza as they recover and rebuild, but also their work to protect the island—from restoring and reopening their properties to rebuilding urban forests and educating people about how to adapt to a changing climate and revitalize communities. Together, we can bring hope to our incredible colleagues as they face this tremendous challenge for the island's future.
